

Public Service Announcements

:10 spot

Cigarette butts, food wrappers, bottles, cans ... nobody wants to see this kind of litter along our roads. To find out how you can help, go to litteritcostsyou.org.

:15 spots

Look around and it's not hard to see that litter is everywhere. Not only is litter ugly, but it also affects our health and safety and costs us millions of dollars to clean up. To find out how you can help, go to litteritcostsyou.org.

Cigarette butts, food wrappers, bottles, cans, even mattresses that fly off the tops of cars... nobody wants to see this kind of litter along our roads or in our neighborhoods. To find out how you can help, go to litteritcostsyou.org.

Your tax dollars are supporting someone else's lazy habits. Each year, we spend millions of dollars and hundreds of hours picking up litter from Georgia's highways and waterways. To find out more, go to litteritcostsyou.org.

Your tax dollars are supporting someone else's lazy habits. Each year, we spend millions of dollars and hundreds of hours picking up litter in Georgia. To find out how you can make a difference, go to litteritcostsyou.org.

Your tax dollars are supporting someone else's lazy habits. Each year, cities, counties and the state of Georgia spend millions of dollars picking up litter from our highways and waterways. To find out more, go to litteritcostsyou.org.

Your tax dollars are supporting someone else's lazy habits. Each year, the Georgia Department of Transportation spends at least $14 million to clean up trash on our state roads and interstates. To find out more, go to litteritcostsyou.org.

A little trash is a big deal. Three out of four Georgia motorists say they've seen trash thrown from a vehicle, yet only one in 10 admits to doing it. All of this litter comes with a cost. To find out more, go to litteritcostsyou.org.

:20 spot

Your tax dollars are supporting someone else's lazy habits. Each year, Georgia spends millions of dollars and hundreds of hours picking up litter from the state's highways and waterways. To find out what's already being done and how to fight litter in your own community, log on to litteritcostsyou.org.

:30 spots

Look around and it's not hard to see that litter is everywhere, lining our roadways, damaging our neighborhoods, and polluting our lakes and rivers. What can be hard to see is that litter costs us all in wasted tax dollars, lower property values, even injury and death on our state highways and local roadways. To find out more about what's being done to fight litter in Georgia and to learn how you can help make a difference in your community, log on to litteritcostsyou.org.

Cigarette butts, food wrappers, bottles, cans, even mattresses that fly off the tops of cars... nobody wants to see this kind of litter along our highways or in our neighborhoods. Every year, we spend millions of dollars and hundreds of hours picking up litter from Georgia's highways and waterways. But it's going to take more than just cleaning up to solve our litter problem. It's going to take all of us working together. To find out how you can make a difference, go to litteritcostsyou.org.

Your tax dollars are supporting someone else's lazy habits. Each year, cities, counties and the state of Georgia spend millions of dollars and hundreds of hours picking up litter from our highways and waterways. But it's going to take more than just cleaning up to solve our litter problem. It's going to take all of us working together. To find out what's already being done and to learn how to fight litter in your own community, log on to litteritcostsyou.org.

A little trash is a big deal. Three out of four Georgia motorists say they've seen trash tossed from a vehicle, yet only one in 10 admits to doing it. Only losers litter, and these losers cost the rest of us. They make our roads ugly, cost us tens of millions of dollars in cleanup, and create breeding grounds for unwanted pests with their piles of trash. To find out how you can help solve Georgia's litter problem or to see what's going on in your community, go to litteritcostsyou.org.